DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, DECEMBER 2, 1833.

☞The river is now in fine navigable condition, and it will be perceived, by the list of arrivals, that the steam boat owners have not failed to improve the opportunity afforded them.

THE AMERICAN ALMANAC.—We have received volume Fifth, for 1834, of this valuable work; and, after a careful examination of the contents, think it quite equal to any of those which preceded it. It contains upwards of three hundred and thirty pages of closely printed and well selected matter. To enumerate merely all the interesting and valuable intelligence embraced in this repository of useful knowledge, would require more space than we would willingly devote to it.—In addition to a very full calendar, and a large amount of astronomical and meteorological information, there is much other matter of permanent and general interest.

There is a list of the first Colonial Congress, which assembled at New York on the 7th October, 1765—a list of the members of congress from 1774 to 1788—another list of members, under the Constitution, from 1789 to 1833—and also, a list of the members the of Convention which framed the Constitution. There is much statistical matter collected and condensed within a small compass, and a considerable portion of the book is given to an account of the literary institutions of the individual States of this Union.

It is for sale by Messrs. Johnston & Stockton, Market Street.

THE EMPEROR NICHOLAS.—A good deal of surprize and disgust is expressed by many persons at the conduct of our late minister, James Buchanan, in toasting the Emperor Nicholas, the sanguinary and unrelenting oppressor of the gallant but unfortunate Poles. To our mind, it seems that there is nothing surprizing in this toast; it is well calculat- to gain Mr. Buchanan popularity with the Jackson party, and favor with the great chief.—Approbation of the ruffian tyrant of all the Russias, comes, with singular propriety, from persons who approve the late high handed measure—the removal of the deposits.

FOREIGN NEWS.—Our readers will find, in our paper, to day, a mass of foreign news, brought by the Roscoe.—France appears to be strengthening and extending her dominion in Africa—the capture of Bujeiah, with the fine harbor which it possesses, is an important event in the history of her African Colonization.—We rejoice at every success which she obtains in that quarter, and hope that she will continue to extend and consolidate her possessions; and that civilization will gradually advance, from Algiers, from Liberia, and from the Cape of Good Hope, until barbarism shall no longer exist in that region.

Spain seems to be considerably agitated by the partisans of Don Carlos, but we incline to the opinion that the young Queen must be the favorite of the nation. Enthusiasm is a characteristic of the countrymen of Palafox, and Romana, and Mina; and, had Carlos been the choice of the people, we would not have heard of partial risings, but the whole Spanish peninsula, from Cadiz to Bilboa, would have been in motion.

As to Portugal, the intelligence, by the Roscoe, is unimportant, but the subsequent intelligence, by the Paoli, if it can be relied upon, and we see no reason to doubt it, is decisive of the contest.—Don Pedro is not only able to hold possession of Lisbon and Oporto, but meets the enemy in the field and drives him from his entrenchments.

But, certainly, the most interesting and agreeable article of intelligence brought by the Roscoe, is the account of the safe return of the gallant and enterprizing Captain Ross from his long absence in the frozen regions. Truly, his friends, and those of his fellow voyagers, must have been most agreeably surprized, by their arrival, when they had almost abandoned every hope of seeing them again. Last summer, when the sending out Capt. Back in search of him was discussed, many persons opposed it as visionary and absurd. Capt. Back, who it seems is the personal friend of the gallant Ross, still hoped to find him alive, and to be the means of rescuing from the region of ice. How delightful must be the feelings of this enterprizing man, to find that such exertions had been made for his rescue, when so little hope of their success could exist! How different would have been his feelings, how deep his mortification, had he found that his friends and countrymen had abandoned him to his supposed melancholy fate, without an effort to rescue him! Truly, the whole history of his expedition and return, is one of romantic interest.

For the Gazette.

MR. CRAIG—The following anecdote may serve to show the value of such an institution as the present Bank of the United States—and how all classes of the community may derive benefit from it, more than the negotiation of a draft for a million of dollars.

An individual, about two years since, administered on the estate of a person who had removed from the State of Maine to Westmoreland county, and had been engaged in burning water lime, on the canal, and had there deceased.

About a year since, the administrator applied to the writer, to know how he should remit the sum that might be found due against him, (on the settlement of the deceased's estate) in favor of the sole heir, a minor child. The administrator was advised to write to Maine, have a guardian appointed for the child, who should be authorized to receive the amount from the administrator—this was done—and, on yesterday, the writer of this purchased a draft at the Branch Bank, in this city, for the amount in the hands of the administrator, ($34 35) for seventeen cents premium, and forwarded it to him in Ligonier valley, Westmoreland county, to be transmitted to the guardian, at Penobscot, (Maine.) The draft being made payable to order, and endorsed to order, is perfectly safe from robbery of the mail, and defies the Weirichs and Vansickles of the post office, and will perpetuate the evidence of payment, and the account on which paid—though small in amount, it may not be the less necessary for an orphan.—"Reader, slight not the simple annals of the poor."

SIXTEEN DAYS LATER FROM ENGL'D

RETURN OF CAPTAIN ROSS FROM THE ARCTIC EXPEDITION—CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN, BETWEEN THE QUEEN AND DON CARLOS.

New York, November 26.—This morning, the packet ship Roscoe, Captain Delano, arrived from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 24th of October. ARCTIC DISCOVERY.

The most interesting item of intelligence furnished by this arrival, relates to the unexpected return of Captain Ross, from the Arctic Regions. This intrepid navigator, after an absence of three years and a half, has returned to England in safety, when all reasonable hope had fled, even of his existence. The expedition of Captain Back, sent forth for his possible rescue and relief, and which, in every sense of the phrase, might be termed the forlorn hope, has been superseded in its purpose by this gratifying intelligence—and our concern and sympathies may now be directed to him who has been sent to succor the returned.

Capt. Ross, with the whole of his party, except three, two of whom died on the passage out, and one at a later period, arrived at Hull on the morning of Friday, the 18th of October.

The hardy veteran, (says the Hull Advertiser,) was dressed in seal skin trowsers, with the hair outwards, over which he wore a faded naval uniform; and the weather beaten countenances of himself and his companions, bore evident marks of the hardships they had undergone, although they appeared in excellent health. On landing, at half past 9 yesterday (Friday) morning, from the Gazelle, the Captain and his comrades, Commander J. Ross, Surgeon M'Dearin, and Mr. Thom, the second officer of the expedition, with Captain Humphreys, proceeded to the Victoria Hotel. Within a few minutes after his arrival, the news spread rapidly through the town, and crowds proceeded to congratulate the adventurers. The Mayor and Aldermen waited on Capt. Ross, in procession, and conducted him to the Mansion House, where he partook of some refreshment.—The Wardens, and several of the Elder Brethren of the Trinity House, a deputation from the Commissioners of Pilots, and several other public bodies, also waited on him, to present their congratulations. The bells rang merry peals—the colors were hoisted on all the shipping in the port, and a public dinner was to be given at 3 o'clock to Captain Ross, by the principal inhabitants. He was to start for London at 4 in the evening. The freedom of the Corporation was presented to him in a silver box.

It was in 1829 that Capt. Ross fitted out his expedition to determine the practicability of a new passage, which had been confidently stated to exist, particularly by Prince Regent's Inlet, but in consequence of the loss of the foremast of his vessel, the Victory, he was obliged to refit at Wideford, in Greenland. The accounts of his departure from thence on the 27th July, 1829, formed the last authentic intelligence received of the expedition. By the subsequent details it will be perceived that he was picked up by the Isabella of Hull,—the very ship—by a singular coincidence, in which he made his first voyage to the Arctic regions.

By Capt. Ross's account, it appears that the first season, that of 1829, was the mildest that had ever been recorded, and the sea was more clear of ice than had been experienced during any preceding voyages. On the 14th of August, Capt. Ross reached the spot where the stores of the Fury were landed, without experiencing any difficulty, and there he found the provisions, &c., but not the wreck, which had totally disappeared.—Having supplied all his wants at this depot, he advanced to the southward round Cape Cary, from whence the west coast led him, in a S. W. direction, to the lat. of 72 deg. N. Here he was for the first time seriously impeded by ice; but, after examining an inlet, he proceeded to urge his way to the southward, as near the west shore as the shallowness of the water permitted, and occasionally landed to take possession of the newly discovered region for the British crown, with the usual ceremony. Owing to the rapidity of the tides and currents, the stubborn quality of the ice, and the rocky character of the coast, the voyage was extremely perilous. Having experienced several almost miraculous escapes from shipwrecks, they ultimately succeed in reaching the 70 deg. of lat. in a direction nearly due south of Fury Point, where their course was arrested by an impenetrable barrier of ponderous ice. In a harbor which they found at this extreme point, they wintered.

In January, 1830, they opened a communication with a tribe of natives who had never before held intercourse with strangers. Friendship was soon formed between them and the tars, and the first winter, which was not very severe, was spent very pleasantly. Having learned from the natives that the east sea was divided from the west by a neck of land, the point was examined, and all hope of effecting a passage in that direction completely extinguished. Commander Ross, (nephew of Capt. Ross,) who was sent to survey the coast of the west sea, leading to Cape Turnagain, succeeded in getting within 150 miles of it, and left off within a short distance of where Capt. Back expected Fish River to join the sea. They also determined that the land was contiguous to that which forms Repulse Bay.

During the autumn of 1830, the voyagers waited in vain for the ice to dissolve, as it had done the preceding year. They had not, with great exertion, proceeded more than four miles, (retracing their course) when they were arrested, in a very dreary position, by the approach of a winter unparalleled in severity—the lowest temperature being 92 degrees below the freezing point. The summer proving no less rigorous for the season, little hope was entertained of a release, and a further progress of fourteen miles was all they could accomplish.

In October, 1831, the ship was laid up in the harbor in which she at present lies moored, and where the party endured the rigors of another winter, not less severe than that of the preceding year. Their provisions being consumed, they had now no alternative but to abandon the vessel, and proceed to the spot where the Fury's provisions still remained—a direct distance of 200 miles, which was increased by one-half, in consequence of the circuitous rout which the ice obliged them to take. They accordingly left the Victory in May, 1832, and after a journey of uncommon labor and hardship, reached Fury Beach in the month of July. During this journey, they had not only to carry their provisions and sick, but also a supply of fuel; for without melting snow they could not procure even a drink of water.

They repaired the Fury's boats, and attempted to escape; but it was September before they reached Leopold's Island, which they have fully established to be the N. E. point of America. Here they vainly waited for the ice to break. It presented an impenetrable mass, extending across Lancaster Sound, and intercepting the progress of the fishing ships, which could advance no further than Admiralty Inlet, where some remained as late as the 19th of September the same year.—Winter set in, and they had no choice left but to retrace their steps and spend another inclement season in canvass huts covered with snow. They had no beds, clothing, or animal food. Capt. Ross says that their sufferings cannot be completely submitted to the public, for it could not be believed what they had undergone. The carpenter perished; and several others of the crew were so much reduced that they had to be carried to Batty Bay, where the boats had been left.

The spring and summer of the present year afforded the desolate party more cheering hopes.—The ice opened on the 14th of August, and on the same day that Capt. Humphreys, in the Isabella, tried to reach Leopold's Island, they arrived there. The former could not cross the ice, and was driven by a N. W. gale to the southward, up Prince Regent's Inlet. The party remained until the gale had departed, and, having crossed, when the Isabella was to the southward, they passed to the northward of her; having gained the shore of Lancaster Sound, they reached its entrance before the Isabella overtook them. It is impossible for any description to do justice to the feelings on either side at meeting. None but those who have been in a similar situation can form any idea of what passed in the minds of men rescued from such misery by the hand of Divine Providence; nor can the feelings of him who was selected as the instrument of mercy be fully appreciated.

The party were not more reduced by their sufferings than might have been expected. They have now recovered from the effects of those sufferings. The circumstance that Captain Ross was rescued by the ship he commanded, in 1818, is a curious and happy conclusion of the voyage, the result of which has been to establish, that there is no new (N. W.) passage south of 74°.

The country discovered, which is larger than G. Britain, has been named Boothea, after Felix Booth, Esq., Sheriff of London, in 1829, who much assisted Captain Ross in fitting out the expedition. The true position of the magnetic pole has been discovered, and much valuable information obtained for the improvement of geographical and philosophical knowledge. Captain Ross had a good opportunity of verifying his former survey of the west coast of Baffin's Bay, which every master of a Greenland ship can testify to be most correct.

Only three men died during the voyage, two of whom were men whose constitutions were unfit for the climate. On the whole, it may be truly said, that this expedition has done more than any that preceded it; and let it be remembered that Captain Ross and his nephew were volunteers, serving without pay, for the attainment of a great national object, in prosecuting which they have lost their all.

From Hull, Captain Ross proceeded to London, and received the most gratifying testimonials of public approbation of his services.

A despatch was agreed to, to be forwarded by a winter express to Captain Back, acquainting him of Captain Ross's return, and directing him to turn his attention now entirely to the second object of his mission, namely,—completing the coast line of the north eastern part of America, of which little more than 150 miles remain to be traced.

The latest intelligence received in England from Captain Back, was conveyed in letters dated Norway House, Jack River, 19th June, the tenor of which was favorable.

From London Captain Ross proceeded to Windsor Castle, where he had the honor of dining with his Majesty.

It appears that Captain James C. Ross, the nephew of the Commander, penetrated 200 miles into the interior of the country, guided by the Esquimaux, and discovered the Magnetic Pole about 70 deg. 30 min. N. lat. 96 deg. W. long. on which he planted the British flag, taking possession of the spot in the name of the King. In about lat. 69, a small isthmus of about 15 miles divides the seas, for it is ascertained that there is no passage south of North Somerset, but that from Cape Carry the land is connected with what is termed Melville Peninsula. In the 15 miles above mentioned, they found a Lake about 9 miles broad, so that there is, in fact, not more than six miles of land to divide the seas at that spot, from whence again it diverges to Point Turnagain, without their having found any such river as the supposed Great Fish River.

With what intense anxiety, says the Literary Gazette, will the public look for the narrative of their adventures! And how satisfactory must it be to the subscribers to that fund which has despatched Capt. Back's expedition in search of them, that this manifestation of good feeling took place; that the country's name was rescued from the disgrace of leaving them to their fate; and that regardless of the bodings of croakers, a course was adopted alike honorable to the parties, and, now, so grateful to the hearts of their restored countrymen.

The London papers announce the intended? marriage of Miss Fanny Kemble to Pierce Butler, Esq., of Philadelphia. They also announce that the journal kept by Miss K. during her residence in this country, is to be transmitted thither for publication.

SCOTLAND.

The Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch were riotously attacked at the town of Biggar, on their way to Stirling, where his Grace was to preside at a great agricultural meeting. Much indignation is expressed at an occurrence so novel in Scotland.

ALGIERS.

By the official reports of the capture of Bujeiah, it appears that six vessels of the squadron arrived in that roadstead in the night of the 28th ult., but from adverse winds were prevented from landing the troops before the inhabitants of the place were aware of their arrival, the consequence of which was, that on their nearing the coast, five forts played warmly on them, and the forces, on landing, were welcomed with a brisk fusillade, which wounded several. The French troops, however, soon succeeded in taking three of the forts, but their troops were so dispersed, and the Kabailes came down from the mountains in such masses, that they were compelled to have recourse to the marines to form a rear guard.

From 7 o'clock on the morning of the 29th, to the evening of the 2d Oct., the battle was almost incessant, night even not allowing of any repose—for the moon was at its full, and shone so clear, that vigorous fighting continued throughout the whole night of the 29th, and the country, even to the water's edge, being so thickly planted with olive and other trees, that the Kabailes were every where concealed, and kept up a most harassing fire upon the French.

On the 2d of August the French were in possession of all the forts and strong holds, and the engineers having erected a line of batteries, Bujeiah may now be looked upon as a French port, being a great acquisition to the commercial community of that country, and affording to the navy the finest anchorage on the coast of Africa.—The loss on both sides was considerable; the exact number was, however, not known, but the Kabailes are supposed to have lost about 3,000. The French had about 110 wounded on board La Caravane, which had been formed into an hospital. On the evening of the first day, the French had 20 killed and 50 wounded. Gen. Trezel, the Commander in Chief of the Army, was slightly wounded in the thigh, with a spent ball.

AFFAIRS OF SPAIN.

The death of King Ferdinand, and the accession of his daughter to the throne, to open the door for which the Salique Law had been abolished, has been followed, as it was predicted would be the case, by an insurrection in favor of Don Carlos, the late King's brother, who would have been his regular successor but for the act just referred to. As to the extent or efficiency of the revolt, however, we are not yet very well informed. We have no precise information as to the commencement of the insurrection, further than that it broke out in Bilboa. Although the apostolicals will do all in their power every where to foment disaffection, yet, as far as we can perceive by the imperfect and disjointed accounts before us, they have commenced without system, and have as yet little concert of action. According to the latest intelligence, moreover, Don Carlos himself appears to shrink personally from the contest.

No sooner did the news of Ferdinand's death reach Don Carlos, than the latter (October 4) left the head quarters of Don Miguel, where he had taken up his sojourn, and entered Spain by way of Estremadura. Since that date, we have no definite accounts of his progress.

There was a rumor that Don Carlos had been secured by Gen. Sarsfield, and others more venturous add, that he had been shot.

The Madrid Gazette of October 12, quoted in the Paris papers, states that the French ambassador, at an audience with the Queen Regent on the 11th of that month, declared in the name of his sovereign, that "as her friend, ally, relation, and neighbor, he offered her his services in maintaining the rights of her daughter, as well as all the support she might, under any circumstances, require from France."

The Paris Constitutionnel contains the annexed syllabus of its latest Spanish advices:—

1. That no good news has arrived for the Queen.
2. That all communications between Bayone and Madrid are intercepted.
3. That Sarsfield has not pronounced for the Queen.
4. That he has 10,000 men in his power, who may declare for Don Carlos.
5. That Biscay is in a complete state of revolt.
6. That the troops of Castanos hesitated to attack the Carlist forces, and had withdrawn to Tolosa.
7. That Irun was in possession of the priests and monks.
8. That Arragon and Catalonia had risen.
9. That Old Castile was the hotbed of Carlism.
10. That the partisans of Don Carlos would not recognize the Spanish debt of 1823. And.
11. That El Pastor, the celebrated Spanish Liberal, residing at Bayonne, had been applied to by the Queen to enter Spain in her cause. The Constitutionnel thinks he has agreed to do so—but he has not. The same journal says that at Puenta the monks intercept the communication between Madrid and the frontiers.

The following is given as a statement of political opinions in Spain. Biscay, Navarre, and part of Catalonia, are considered as insurrectionary provinces; Old Castile and Estramadura are willing to join them; but the kingdoms of Valentia, Andalusa, La Mancha, Murcia, and all the coast along the Mediterranean, are in favor of the Queen. The latter provinces even contain a great many partisans of the Cortes. The Government continues to receive protestations of devotedness to the Queen and Regent, sent by the Captains General of provinces. That of Gen. Sarsfield, commander of the army of observation on the frontiers of Portugal, has likewise arrived.

NEWS BY THIS MORNING'S MAIL!!

From the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, of Nov. 28.

IMPORTANT FROM LISBON.

We are indebted to Captain Raingard, of the bark Paoli, for a Lisbon paper, of October 14th.—It brings the particulars of an engagement, or rather series of engagements, on the 10th, 11th, and 12th, of which, before, not even the result had reached this country. We rejoice to say that the Pedroites are carrying all before them.

LISBON, Oct. 14.—For some days, a decided movement had been going on in the enemy's rear; the transportation of timbers and other articles evinced an intention to establish heavy artillery in the strong position which he occupied.—The Duke of Braganza readily penetrated the enemy's plans, and determined to attack him before he should establish his lines, which, although badly defended, might create obstacles of no inconsiderable importance.

This determination being formed, and having left the fortifications around Lisbon sufficiently manned, he sallied out of the city at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 10th, with the rest of his troops, divided into four columns. The right column took the road of Portella, and the centre right was to move upon Mirante do Freire, while the two left columns were to march upon Tilheiras. These two columns were composed of infantry, cavalry, and artillery, but the other two, on account of the badness of the roads, were without artillery.

The centre right, being impeded by obstacles, which retarded its progress, was compelled to form a junction with the right, and marched with it to Portella. There they met with a corps of 1,500 rebels, who, at their approach, retired by the road of Sacavem. The column of the centre left was obliged to watch the movements of this corps, while the other proceeded to the heights of Quinta do Freire, to which they were destined. No sooner had this column made its appearance there, than the enemy sent two pieces of artillery to Tilheiras, with which he annoyed us in the direction of Campo Grande: and the column which retired by the road of Sacavem, not daring to retain its artillery, directed it to join a corps of 2,000 men, which was posted on the heights of Ameixoeira. This column, having moved forward in the direction of Sacavem, our own advanced a little, and, without losing a man, took a position between Mirante and the above mentioned heights.

In the mean time, the other two columns encountered the rebels, who presented themselves to the number of 7,000; and, after having wrought prodigies of valor, and their attacks in front being vigorously sustained by the first two, which attacked the enemy in flank, drove them from all their positions. The firing continued until night. The rebels, having retired to the position of Arierio, where all their artillery had been collected, sheltered themselves there, and the two armies bivouacked in presence.

In one hour after, the rebels commenced their retreat—and, at day break, when we were preparing to attack them, we found only the spoils which they had left behind them. A hospital, with 75 inmates, without physician or subsistence, besides many wounded left in the houses without attendants—military stores—a great quantity of baggage, heavy artillery, platforms, defences constructed and in the process of construction, a great quantity of munitions, and an abundance of timber, of all kinds.

On the morning of the 11th, the columns of the enemy were found posted en masse on the heights of Loures, supported by artillery. Although our artillery was left with the rear guard, the valor of our troops would not consent that this circumstance should delay the routing of the enemy's troops. But no sooner had our forces presented themselves in the attitude of attack, than the enemy disappeared, and proceeded to take a position on the road of Santo Antonio de Tojal; it being impossible, situated as they were, to take the road to Sacavem. It is easy to explain the motives which induced the enemy to endeavor to concentrate their forces on this latter road; for, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the column having charge of their heavy baggage, passed in retreat to Pavoa and Albandra.

At 3 o'clock. p. m. the rebels, with three squadrons of cavalry, attempted to attack our right; but on approaching our artillery and cavalry, they desisted from the attempt, and concentrated themselves on their field of battle; but supposing from our previous movement, that our left must be destitute of strength, they tried an attack upon that. The result not corresponding with their wishes, (our cavalry having immediately passed to that flank, together with three squadrons of reserve,) they were completely repulsed.

To this point our information extends; and it is probable that thus affairs stood on the night of the 11th, and that the sequel will decide the fate of the fugitives, and add to the glory of the victors.

We cannot adequately describe the courage and enthusiasm of our troops,—the brilliant charges of the cavalry, and the firmness with which the attacks of the enemy were repulsed at the point of the bayonet; nor the coolness with which our troops drove the rebels from the positions which they occupied and vainly endeavored to defend.

In these two days the enemy had more than one thousand, put hors du combat. Our loss does not exceed four hundred men, including a few officers.

The 12 will put an end to this obstinate (porfiado) conflict; and this birth day of the Commander in Chief will he crowned with the laurels of a victory which will immortalize his name, and seal, once more, with the blood of illustrious victims, the liberties of Portugal, and the Oath to defend the Constitutional Charter and the youthful Queen.

POSTSCRIPT.

Since recording the above official news, relative to the glorious operations of our army, on the 10th and 11th, we have received the following intelligence, which may be relied on.

The rebels, who had retired in the direction of Loires, learning that the road was blocked up by the forces of Baron de Sa da Bandeira, took the road of Tojal, and proceeded in the direction of Santarem. Such was the precipitation of their flight that they abandoned every thing. In Luminar, where Don Miguel had his quarters, our troops found, among various other things, three large coffers, which, from their great weight, were supposed to be full of money or silver plate, and which his imperial Majesty directed to be immediately conveyed to Lisbon, and they are now in the royal palace of Necessities. On the 11th, our troops, who pursued the rebels as it were at the point of the bayonet, took a great number of prisoners in the neighborhood of Via-longa. The enemy, in their precipitation, evacuated Villa Franca, on the night of the 12th, and our victorious army passed the night there instead of them.

Yesterday morning, 13th, it appears that the rebels continued their retreat upon Villa Nova, whither our army followed them, and, it is believed, that, in the course of the day, that town fell into our hands. The division of Baron de Sa da Bandeira, having learned the course of the enemy, was advancing rapidly upon their left, and it was expected that he would, yesterday, form a junction with the other forces of our army.

On Saturday, (the 12th,) a detachment of cavalry from the corps under command of Count de Parrabo, and two companies of infantry, went out to clear Belem and Ajuda of some guerrillas and bands of pirates, who were there committing their usual rapines and atrocities, and succeeded in capturing several of them, together with some of the high functionaries of the day, of the Usurpation, including the well known Chief Judge Mascarenhas, Counsellor of the defunct Senate of Lisbon.

☞We are compelled to omit several advertisements, which shall appear to morrow.

A CARD—TO THE PUBLIC.

THE undersigned, manufacturers of Salt, on the Allegheny, Kiskeminitas, and Conemaugh rivers, in consequence of the ruinous rates to which salt has been reduced, during the past year, in part owing to causes which are not likely soon to occur again, have, after mutual advisement, agreed and fixed upon the following prices; below which they will not dispose of the article, at their respective establishments, nor authorize their agents elsewhere so to do; viz:—

$2 per barrel of 280 lbs. of salt;
40 cts. pr. bushel for any amount under 5 bushels;

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8. 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
other lots, containing about			6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving t emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
